

Overview of Yemen's Airports

There are eight international airports in Yemen: Aden International Airport, Hodeida, Sana'a (located in the capital city), Al-Rayan, Ghaida, Ataq, Sayoun, and Ta'izz. Sana 'a International Airport (SIA) is roughly 13 kilometers north of the city. Aden International Airport is the second biggest airport in Yemen. It also has a long runway that serves six international carriers, mainly going to the Middle East and Africa. The other airports at -Rayan, Ghaida, Ataq, Sayoun, and Ta'izz are not as large, but international flights operate into and out of these aforementioned Airports.

There are two local Airlines in Yemen which serve tourists and travelers. One of these two companies is Yemenia (Yemen Airways) which serves travelers locally and internationally. Also, there is Felix Airways Company which started operations for domestic transport in Yemen, in addition to some destinations to some countries such as Amman, United Arab Emirates, Djibouti and Egypt.

Explanations on Technical Data

ICAO-code

International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), a 4-letter airport location indicator. The field above is left blank if no ICAO location indicator is available for the selected airport.

IATA-code

International Air Transport Association (IATA), a 3-letter identifier for the relevant airport. The field above is left blank if no IATA code is available for the selected airport.

Usage

Airports are classified in three categories: civil airports open for public use, military airports and private airports not open to the public. Airports that are joint use, both civil and military, are shown as civil airports.

Civ. Civil airport, open for public use (including joint use).

Mil. Military airport, not open for public use.

Priv. Private airport, not open for public use.

Customs

Yes Customs service available during airport operating hours.

No Customs service not available.

O/R Airport has customs service, prior notification is required.

Pto. Airport has part-time customs service available, not necessarily identical to the airport hours.

Runway

Identification of the surface of the longest runway available:

Paved Paved (hard surface) runway

Unpaved Unpaved (soft surface) runway (Only lighter aircraft)

Water Water (for float planes)

IFR

This field indicates if the airport has any officially published instrument approach procedure.

Yes Instrument approach procedure is published.

No Instrument approach procedure is not published. (Airport not suitable for traffic during bad weather or darkness.)

Runway Length

Shows the length in feet of the longest runway available at the selected airport, rounded down to the next full hundred feet. If the airport has both hard (paved) and soft (unpaved) runways, the length of the longest hard surface runway is shown. If the longest runway is both, hard and soft surface, the length of the hard surface portion is shown.
